The Snowden J. Athey House is a greatly altered ca. 1891 two-story, gable front and wing frame house. The building has a basic L-plan with one story additions on the building's east and north sides. The house, extensively remodeled in 1972 as a "redecorated early Americana farmhouse with the delight and charm of New England" has clapboard walls (now covered with vinyl siding) and a composition shingle roof.¹

The building's principle elevation faces south toward Greencastle Road and is asymmetrical. The main facade of the gable front and wing has an assortment of window types with one-over-one, two-over-two, four-over-four and a picture window (centered in the first floor of the gable end). This variety of window types, placed in roughly symmetrical ranks, is continued throughout the house. A one-story shed roofed addition with a gable end chimney has been attached to the east side of the house. A new gable end chimney has also been built on the west. The north or rear side of the house has a series of additions and porch enclosures with side gabled and flat roofs.

Summary: The Snowden Athey House, built ca. 1891 and extensively remodeled and expanded in the 1970s, lacks sufficient integrity to represent a distinctive type, period or method of design and construction and has minimal local architectural or historical significance. The house, a gable end and wing frame building type, was a popular dwelling usually built in the Gothic Revival or Queen Anne styles by Montgomery County's farmers in the late-nineteenth century.

Snowden Athey inherited 25 acres of land, once a part of a parcel known as "Soper's Seat," from his father's estate in 1891. He built his farmhouse soon thereafter and expanded his holdings in 1900 adding 60 1/4 acres. The Athey family lived at the farmhouse until Snowden Athey's widow Sarah Eva Athey sold the property (then 2.21 acres) to Edward and Catherine Formosa. The Formosas remodeled the house and sold it in 1972 to George and Laura Cooper. The Coopers lived there seven years before selling to James and Brenda Greenan. Prepare both a summary paragraph of significance and a general statement of history and support.

The Athey farmhouse is significant as an example of vernacular farm architecture typical of that constructed in Montgomery County from the mid-nineteenth through the early twentieth centuries. The house was probably built by Snowden Jackson Athey about 1891.¹ He received the land on which his house was built in January of 1891 through the division of property owned by his deceased father, James Athey (who purchased 50 acres from James Soper in 1859). Snowden and his brother, Benjamin, each received 25 acres of a tract of land referred to as "Soper's Seat."² In 1900, Snowden added 60 1/4 acres to his farm.³ Snowden was a farmer active in the grange movement, serving as a member of the executive committee of the Liberty Grove Grange in Burtonsville.⁴ Sometime around the turn of the century Snowden added the rear wing to the house.⁵

In May of 1955, Sarah Eva Athey, Snowden's widow, sold the house (then on only 2.123 acres) to Edward and Catherine Formoso.⁶ In 1972 they put the house up for sale, advertising it as a "completely redecorated early americana seven room farmhouse with the delight and charm of New England, on 2.1 acres-- big old red barn-- several sheds..."⁷ The house was sold in April of 1973 to George and Laura Cooper.⁸ In May of 1979, the Coopers sold it to the present owners, James and Brenda Greenan.⁹

¹The date given is based on the date the property was received and the date that it first appears on the tax records with improvements, 1892. In addition, the house appears on the 1894 map but not on the map of 1878.
